Rural generation and technical energy solutions become exclusive agents for world leading biomass boiler manufacturer

Two pioneering Irish green energy companies, Rural Generation Ltd in Co. Derry and Technical Energy Solutions Ltd in Co. Waterford, have just announced an important new contract with the leading Austrian biomass boiler manufacturer KWB Biomass Heating Systems, making them the exclusive sales and maintenance partners for KWB biomass boilers throughout the island of Ireland.

Rural Generation Ltd has been selected as the exclusive agent for KWB heating systems in Ulster and Connaught while Technical Energy Solutions Ltd will be exclusively responsible for the supply and installation of KWB equipment in Munster and Leinster.

Rural Generation Ltd has been helping clients significantly reduce their heating bills and carbon emissions for over 15 years by providing convenient, cost-effective and sustainable renewable energy systems and state of the art biomass heat solutions to both commercial and domestic markets.

With branches in more than 11 countries worldwide and headquarters in Austria, KWB is one of the world's leading biomass boiler manufacturers and operates the largest and most advanced private biomass research centre in Europe.

KWB boilers provide energy ranging from 15 – 300 KW and they are fully automatic, extremely user friendly and have advanced self cleaning mechanisms. Burning either wood chips or wood pellets, these systems incorporate the highest safety features and are exceptionally technologically innovative. The systems have the capacity to control numerous heating circuits and can be remotely monitored by the boiler owner and the installer. They can also alert the installer if a fault has occurred by sending them a SMS thereby minimising the response time of service personnel.

Jim Dudley Managing Director of Technical Energy Solutions Ltd (TES) commented " TES has always strived to be a quality provider of state of the art green technology and we are delighted to be chosen by KWB as their preferred exclusive partner for the Munster and Leinster provinces. We have experience with many biomass boiler manufacturers but KWB's focused commitment to research and development makes them unique in this industry. We look forward to continuing our partnership with KWB and providing our customers with quality sustainable wood chip/wood pellet solutions to their heating and hot water requirements."
